CRAZED MAN'S ACT TAKES FOUR LIVES

Shoots Roman Candle Into Store Stock, Bringing Blast; Little Hero Perishes.

Cartersville, Ga., Dec. 24 (A.P.) .-Death today claimed four children who were earning Christmas money as temporary clerks in a fireworks store, when a roman candle, lighted by a customer caused an explosion which enveloped the building in flames.

The charred bodies of William Shaw the proprietor of the store, and Mary Bell Dodd, 16, were brought out of the blazing building by firemen. Mary Kennedy, 18, who with the three other children, was earning extra holiday money by working in the fireworks store, was so badly burned that she died in a hospital late tonight.

Hugh Padgett, 11, was severely ourned, and his father, Paul Padgett,

J. R. Shellhorse, jr., 17, dashed into the burning building and attempted to carry the Dodd girl outside, but crazed by the sudden blast of heat, she fought him off and rushed back into the flames. The youth made his escape

C. Those very practical politicians who got out and worked for Mr. Hoover under the warm Southern clime which does not lend itself to energy are naturally looking for more than gestures. They cannot eat them or eat on them. They expect their work to be recognized in the medium which was set up long ago for political batter and exchange.

"Sonny Boy's" name.

The youngster, whose mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lloyd, both work, decided yesterday afternoon that Santa was slow in bringing him his train, so he started on a hunt for the old gentleman. He pursued his search as far as Sixth street and should be some and took him to the train which Santa had left for him.

"Sonny Boy" went looking for Santa Claus last night and midnight found him sixting in the House of Detention, with no Santa visible and with no signs of the train for which he had asked the old dispenser of Yule cheer. But early this morning "Sonny Boy" was returned to his home by the good women of the House of Detention, and there it was found that Santa had not forgotten to slide down the chimmey of 735 Sixth street northwest and leave the train for 4-year-old Alfred Lloyd, which, off the police records, is "Sonny Boy's" name.

City Has Known.

Chicago, Dec. 24 (A.P.).—Santa Claus came to Chicago tonight bowed under the weight of a $200,000,000 pack of gifts.

Leading merchants who a few days ago estimated Chicago would spend about $194,000,000 for Christmas presents tonight revised the figures at the close of the eleventh hour rush, and the more optimistic said that at least $200,000,000 had been expended here for Christmas presents.

These gifts included not only toys for the children and the sentimental or personal gifts for the grown-ups, but radios, planes, all kinds of furniture and household utilities which bedecked with holly and red ribbon tomorrow will be classed as Christmas presents.

While Chicago has been spending an unprecedented sum on gifts, the city which has gained a rather unenviable reputation for crime and gang activities, tonight had prepared for its less fortunate residents the most bountiful Christmas they have ever known Dozens of agencies, including charitable, philanthropic, welfare and educational institutions have raised special funds and the newspapers have joined in the drive for a Christmas for the city's unfortunates until tonight it was estimated that $50,000 persones will receive free Christmas dinners tomorrow and hundreds of families will be provided not only with food but with gifts and household necessities. a questionnaire addressed it lass Wednesday by a special committee of the parley.

Only receipt of this word from La Paz was awaited to launch the conciliation effort by the committee, charged by the conference with this duty. Paraguay's reply, favorable to conciliation, arrived late Sunday night.

Dr. Victor Maurtua, of Peru, chairman of the special committee, said he would lose no time in proceeding with the task as soon as the Bolivian reply arrived and that he would convene is on Christmas Day if necessary.

Bolivia's delay in replying was puzzling delegates to the conference. Fears were entertained that the silence from La Paz might be indicative of complications in the conciliation proceedings. They were dispelled yesterday, however, when it was indicated that some of the delegates had received advices from their governments that the Bolivian reply would be favorable and would be soon forthcoming.

The questionnaire asked both Bolivia and Paraguay to give definitions of the points at issue between them and to indicate how they would prefer to have the conciliating tribunal constituted.

Utilizing the luil, a subcommittee on arbitration treaties met yesterday to reconcile different viewpoints among the delegates over the scope of the pact which it is proposed to conclude here. POLICE FEAR MORE KIDNAPING KILLINGS

Double Guard Is Maintained Over Jurors and Principals in Chicago Convictions.

DEATH THREATS 'MANY

Chicago, Dec. 24 (A.P.) -Angelo Petitti and Andrew Cappellano, convicted of kidnaping 10-year-old Billy Ranieri, brooded in separate cells today over a fate that rolled in with the Christmas tide. Meanwhile Chicago police, fearing reprisals, doubled guard over jurors and principals in the trial which ended yesterday. A jury found them guilty of kidnaping for ransom and fixed the penalty at 25 years.

Police said today the doubled guard would be maintained until Petitti and his henchmen were taken to Joliet Prison. They charged Petitti was the head of a huge extortion ring. Next month he faces another trial on that charge with Pasquale Capitosto and Frank Mastroianni.

Frank Mastroianni.

The verdict yesterday ended a trial punctuated by death threats to judge, attorneys, principals and witnesses and the slaying of one important witness, Ole Scully, cousin of Billy Ranieri.

Tony Cappellano, 16-year-old son of Andrew, who was tried with his father and Petitit, was acquitted and given his freedom today.

A. Frank Ranieri, father of Billy, refused to let fear of the extortion ring spoil his prospects for a happy Christmas with his family, although he has received threats that he was the next to die.

Paris Landlord Waits 12

Years for Return of Tchitcherin.

Paris, Dec, 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.) — A motheaten mattress, a few pieces of rickety furniture and a little pile of well-worn clothes were dumped out in a mean street of Levallois-Perret, one of the poorer suburbs of Paris, this Christmas Eve.

Twelve years ago their owner abandoned them without the formality of giving up his lease. He had urgent business in Moscow, where a revolution was in full swing. After waiting twelve years for the man to return and claim the personal effects he left behind, the landlord today got a court judgment permitting him to consider the premises vacant and to remove the clothing and furniture in it.

Not long after the tenant left his one room he was presiding over the state department at Moscow. The belongings put out on the Levallois street this evening were the property of the read of the celebrations. A fexical and singing of carols were features of the Naval Hospital, in Georgetown, at Bethesda and at Rhode Island and Bouth Dakota avenues Santa Claus and singing of carols were features of each of the celebrations. With a bullet wound in his head, Alphonse Fortti, 46, today walked about 20 blocks before he collapsed.
Alphonse had planned a Christmas Eve suicide. He stood in Patterson Park with a pistol ia his hand. He reised it to his temple. Then he pulled the trigger, but, as he did so, he changed his mind, and pulled his head away. As a result, Alphonse shot himself in the ear instead of the temple. Not satisfied with the effect achieved, Alphonse took aim again. This time he raised the gun to his temple and pulled the trigger with a firm hand. With the click of the trigger Alphonse fell. Feeling uncomfortably like a live man, Alphonse put his hand to his head. No blood. He looked at the gun. It had jammed. Alphonse gave up. He left the park and started on a long stroll. He was picked up by Patrolman Kelly and taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment. Dare is not merely a daily fashion service -- it includes a weekly talk on type and color analysis, beauty, accessories and what's what in the fashion world.

It includes a weekly "How-To-Make" (not pattern), which shows the home dressmaker how to make her own wardrobe. Dare's directions are so clear, so complete, that every woman can easily follow them.

Dare's is a personal service for women of all ages and means.

Dare Says: Accessories may really be considered the most important part of a woman's costume. She may select a dress unusually becoming to her in color, style and design, and mar the entire effect of the ensemble by a careless selection of accessories.

Th choice of accessories is a subtle index of good taste or the lack of it. How often one sees an otherwise effective costume marred by the careless addition of a string of beads or some other accessory which has no part in the ensemble!

CHARM, a woman's greatest asset! Charm is close kin to daintiness, and both are characteristics admired by both men and women the world over. A woman can do so much to enbance ber natural charm by paying attention to details in her wardrobe and person that the less clever woman overlooks. A really dainty woman, for instance, will carefully select a perfume that blends with her type and personality and use this perfume consistently in all ber cosmetics. This will give her a subtle, almost intangible, permanent odor which one comes to associate with her alone.

Later he said he reached the Indian frontier, passed through Burma and went to the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines, up to Mongolia, Honolulu, thence to Vancouver, Alaska, Canada, the United States, Central and South America, Zetto added.

Working across to South Africa, Zet-to said that he was treed by a rhin-oceros in the Congo and met a tribe of dwarfs between Uganda and Abyssinia—where he went almost without sleep for fifteen days to avoid assas-

Mouse in Bread Object Of Holdup in New York

New York, Dec. 24 (United Press).—A new sort of holdup was reported today by a Brooklyn citizen, who told police that one bandit "stood him up" while two others searched his house for a loaf of bread, which he was holding as evidence against a baker from whom he had purchased it. It had a mouse in it. The complainant told police he had kept the bread, intending to sue the baker. After he notified the baker of his intention, he said, the bandits called on him, offered him $100 for the loaf with the mouse included and, when he refused, held him up. Three men were arrested. Police charged they were agents of the bakers.

Pikesville, Ky., Dec. 24 (A.F.).—John W. Langley, former representative from the Tenth district, who was paroled from Atlanta Penttentiary December 18, 1926, after serving eleven months on a liquor charge, and was given a full pardon last Saturday, today sent his constituents a Christmas message saying that his wife, Mrs. Katherine Langley, who replaced him in Congress, would not be a candidate to succeed herself in 1930.

Mr. Langley said he had not made up his mind yet whether he would run for office again or not. The former representative was restored to citizenship by President Coolidge's pardon. He was reelected to Congress while his case charging violation of the liquor laws was in court, but resigned when he lost his appeal.

Paint Removal Reveals

$500,000 Tintoretto

Graz, Austria, Dec. 24 (A.P.)—While a large painting depicting the ascension of the Virgin Mary into heaven was hanging in a local art exhibition, Dr. Richter Bienenthal, a government art expert, noticed that the canvas, which is the property of a local church, bore a double coat of paint.

Dr. Blenenthal removed the outer coating and discovered underneath an old masterpiece by Tintoretto, which has been valued at $500,000. The canvas is 13 by 12 feet and Prof. Suida and Prof. Egger, of Graz University, agreed that there could be no doubt that the painting was a genuine Tintoretto. The government has ordered complete restoration of the masterpiece.

PEACE AND GOOD WILL.

In spite of man's inhumanity to man the world toils toward surer peace and more universal good will. On this holy morn the Prince of Peace looks down upon many nations that have resisted the temptation to fly to arms. The armies now actually engaged in hostilities are scattered and small. While the number of men under arms is larger than before the World War, no war cloud of any magnitude is in sight, and on every hand it is acknowledged that progress has been made in the art of keeping the

Since last Christmas the nations have applauded the proposal to renounce war, and the treaty making this renunciation is in process of ratification. If this treaty should become a reality it will mark one of the most important advances in the history of the human race, because it abolishes the legitimacy of war as a means of promoting a nation's aims. This is a reversal of the rule of centuries-a rule upon which empires have been established on the ruins of individual and national liberties.

Because this treaty carries no visible penalty for its violation it is airily dismissed by shallow thinkers as a "mere gesture," "a scrap of paper," and "a puff of wind." But its force does not consist in the old exploded theory that war can be stamped out only by a bigger and more powerful war. The renunciation treaty mobilizes the public opinion of the world-not the military cliques of governments, but the peoples whose blood is the fuel of the war mashine-and enables world opinion to Mentify the nation that starts the shedding of blood. Some individuals suggest that the Kellogg treaty would not have stopped the war in 1914, because each nation then set up the claim that it was acting in self-defense. But every government knows in its heart that it can with adequate capital, who is willing to utilize ot start a war in violation of the renunciation treaty without advertising itself to the universe as an aggressor. The world is on the alert now, and will neither be seduced by propaganda nor taken by surprise. Within the last month a war in South America was halted because the would-be aggressor found arrayed against it the rapidly forming condemnation of the outside world, which would have compelled governments to range themselves against the aggressor. The nation that wanted war concluded that the price of indulging in that luxury the treaty renouncing war would be idiotic if it contained a penalty consisting of provision for a general war to stamp out an incipient war. That plan is worse than no treaty at all. What the world desires is a cessation of war, and if a mechanism can be set up which will enable the world to exert its will, its desire will be accomplished. This mechanism, it is believed, is furnished by the Kellogg treaty.

Before another Christmas comes it is probable that this treaty will have become binding upon the greatest nations. including the United States. It is a prospect that encourages men of good will in every land, and gives fresh meaning to the good old greeting, "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!"

CANNONADING AND RAINFALL.

When "Fighting Bob" Evans led the famous round-the-world battleship squadron into the harbor of Rio de Janeiro 20 years ago, the heavy firing by naval vessels during the exchange of courtestes was followed by one of the heaviest deluges of rain that the Brazillan port ever had experienced. Naturally, the downpour was attributed to the cannonading.

When the battleship bearing President-elect Hoover was steaming toward Rio de Janeiro Brazilians recalled this earlier incident. The President-elect was to be greeted by Brazilian forts and battleships with a 21-gun salute, and the Utah was to reply in kind. The can- note of competition into the low-priced field.

nouading was to be far greater than that which greeted "Fighting Bob," and it was expected that it would cause an even greater downpour. But the Utah entered the harbor of Rio, receiving and returning thunderous salutes, and the sun shone on undimmed.

Does cannonading precipitate rainfall? During the war there were many rainy days, and the public became almost convinced that the artillery in France was responsible; but meteorologists scoffed, and asserted that there was no connection between explosions and rainfall.

Had it rained in Rio de Janeiro after Mr Hoover landed the popular theory would have been greatly fortified. Now it is open to doubt. But, like the old timers who insist that the climate has moderated, those who believe that concussion of the air brings rain will stick to their guns.

UNNECESSARY FIRE HAZARDS.

Two serious apartment house fires occurred in Washington last week. The first destroyed the building at 201 C street northwest, and resulted in the death of two persons and injuries to several others. This building, which was used as a combination apartment and rooming house, had no fire escape. The second fire in a four-story apartment house at 1333 Belmont street northwest, drove fourteen families from their homes, but only one person was seriously burned, and the injuries to others were slight. The latter place was equipped with a fire escape.

Had the latter fire broke out in any one of undreds of public dwelling places which are not equipped for such emergencies, another tragedy would have been the result. A partial survey of the city since the fatal fire of last week has brought out the fact that 500 public dwelling places are violating the District fire regulations. The report submitted to Building Inspector Ochmann made clear that this number represents only part of the violations. Added to this is the fact that rooming houses may be legally operated without fire escapes.

The present act governing safety from fire hazards was adopted in 1906 and amended in 1907. Since then it has not been brought up to date, in spite of its failure to include all classes of public dwellings. District officials are aware of the fact that the inadequacy of the act makes it an easy matter in most stances to evade fire regulations without fear of prosecution. There are a number of socalled rooming houses which are really small hotels, from which escape from upper floors would be impossible if a fire should break out at night.

Obviously the first step in correcting this condition is the enactment of a building code that will fully protect the occupants of public dwellings. District officials should lose no time in studying the situation and recommending the necessary changes in the code to Congress. But the matter should not be dropped with the revision of the code. If there are 500 violators of the present law they should be prosecuted, and notice should be served to the owners of public dwellings that no evasion of the fire regulations will be tolerated.

CHAIN STORES AND RETAILERS.

Probably never has a battle of greater economic importance been waged than that now under way between the chain store and the independent retailer. Often it is said that the independent merchant is doomed-that the economies possible to the mass distributor put the independent competitor to such great disadvantage that it is only a matter of time till he must close shop or sell out to a chain. The Department of Commerce, however, takes the opposite view. "The resourcefulness and freedom of action of the individual." it says. will always go far toward offsetting the advantage of large scale operations or the more complicated organizations.

The independent merchant who does not realize that times have changed, however, is up against it. Merchandising in the last decade has come to be a most complicated process, and it is only the independent merchant new methods, who will survive. He must function intelligently as purchasing agent for the community. He must guard against handling unprofitable items, the soliciting of unprofitable customers, the striving for volume without considering costs, and the use of uneconomic credit practices.

There is every reason to believe that the American community has reached a point in its development where it can support both chain stores and independent retailers. Each has certain advantages over the other. The chain store generally stresses price. The independent should stress service. Some of the economies practiced by the chain can adopted by the independent, however, so that his price, when the extra service he is able to render is taken into consideration, is not greatly out of line with that of the chain

AUTOMOBILE RIVALRY IN 1929.

With 24,500,000 motor vehicles registered in the United States, an increase of 1,463,000 over a year ago, automobile manufacturers confidently expect to make new sales records during 1929. At the present moment the industry is entering its annual tapering-off movement, with decreased production in all plants with the exception of Ford and Chevrolet. The slack period is being utilized, however, to lay plans for the 1929 season and it is expected that with the turn of the year the industry will embark upon a sales and promotion program the like of which has never been

Automobile manufacturers are able to command the best information as to the economic state of the country. That they anticipate a record-breaking year constitutes an excellent assurance of continued prosperity. It is true, of course, that the automobile no longer can be considered a luxury item, and that huge sales no longer indicate extraordinary prosperity, but in its status of fundamental neessity the automobile provides an even better barometer of economic conditions. The new year unquestionably will witness sales competition of the most intense sort. Ford, who is now producing 7,000 cars a day. is staking his position on the four-cylinder model A, and there is no indication that other manufacturers will be able to cut appreciably into his market. Chevrolet's new six-cylinder car, bowever, now being assembled at the rate of 5,000 a day, has introduced a new

With the exception of the Ford, which occu pies a unique position, the battle will involve six-cylinder cars. Because of its impressive purchasing 'position, General Motors with the Chevrolet may be considered as occupying the strongest strategic position, but Overland. Chrysler, Durant and others may be depended upon to give the Chevrolet good battle.

SIDEWALK CONGESTION.

The flood of Christmas shoppers that has urged through the downtown streets of Washington during the last two weeks is sufficient evidence that the traffic problem is not confined to vehicles. In spite of this city's spacious sidewalks the hurrying throngs have jostled in little collisions and suffered much delay and inconvenience

The problem of sidewalk congestion is much more pronounced in other and larger cities. Washington has no skyscrapers to unload their large populations on the streets at "quitting time," and the retail district is not unduly concentrated. Where the combination of skyscrapers and narrow sidewalks is found, as in Detroit, pedestrian traffic becomes a serious problem. It is perhaps this combination that has brought Detroit into leadership in regulating sidewalk traffic.

The walks of that city have been divided into three lanes. Only one-way traffic is permitted in two of the lanes, and the third. which is next to the property line, is reserved for window shoppers. The pedestrians are kept moving in the right lane by officers, and are directed by such signs as "Please Keep to the Right." The system has not been de cloped, however, to the extent that traffic signals are necessary, and left turns are per missible

The Detroit plan is being given thought in other cities and may be widely adopted, especially to care for holiday crowds. It certainly a more effective method of dealing with the problem than any now in use. The very fact that the space over which a pedestrian may amble on downtown streets is restricted should have a psychological effect in eliminating jaywalking. As cities become more and more crowded traffic officials will no doubt find some practical plan for zoning

HEAD OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

It was, perhaps, inevitable that the Salvation Army should reach its present somewhat troubled state. In its 49 years of existence it has grown to be a powerful, flourishing organization, firmly established throughout the world, with a million workers enlisted under its flag. William Booth, the founder, was a strong character. His son, Bramwell, who succeeded him, is also an able man; but he lies ill, and a question has arisen as to his successor. Is it to be the disciple he chooses as provided for under the regulations of the army, or is it to be some one chosen by the army itself?

For not quite 50 years the Salvation Army has been largely a family organization. It may be that the family rule will be continued unbroken. It is believed that Bramwell Booth has chosen one of his children as his succes sor, but it is against this succession that the first meeting of the high council has been called. The council can remove the presiding head by a three-fourths vote, and choose a successor by a two-thirds vote.

The meeting will be held in London on January 8. It will be attended by 63 commissioners and territorial leaders in command of Salvation Army forces in $3 countries and colonies. If Bramwell Booth should be deposed. Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, doubtless will be advanced as a candidate to

Whatever is done, it is to be hoped that the efficiency and permanency of the Salvation Army will not be impaired. For eight years the reform element within the army has been trying to persuade Bramwell Booth now 72 years of age, to relinquish his control, so that a broader form of government may be put into effect. Although a great deal might be gained through such democratization, there is danger that destruction of the benign autocracy under which the army has flourished might cause the whole structure to While the high council is deliberat ing it should realize that its first duty is to secure the permanency of the army organiza-

THE WAR ON CRIME.

Police Commissioner Whalen's reason for abolishing the homicide squad of the New York police force has a direct bearing on the reputation of America as a nation famous for crime. He summarily retired the chief of the squad because during the present year there have been 228 cass of homicide reported for investigation, and the records show that arrests were made in only 2 cases.

The modern criminal utilizes every aid of science and human skill to foster his trade It appears that the police departments of some large cities of this country have been quite unable to hold their own, or else they have negligently failed to enforce the law. But under no conditious is there an excuse for a record such as that presented in New York.

With this kind of detective service it is not surprising that there should be an increase in the number of persons murdered in this country. Last year 9,470 homicides were reported to the Department of Commerce representing an increase of 260 over the previous year. More deaths result from homicide than from typhoid fever, malaria, smallpox scarlet fever, whooping cough or a dozen othe diseases. The theory of a life for a life is ac cepted in many of the States, yet the number of slayers who receive even prison sentences is a small fraction of the number that are guilty of taking human life. Two of the largest cities in the country-New York and Philadelphia-have recently seen fit to reorganize their police depart ments, in order to cut out corruption and in ject new vigor in law enforcement squads. Decided improvement should be the result in both cases. Since there is a tendency of crimiuals to concentrate in large cities, the efforts of these two cities to rid themselves of underworld gangs and racketeers will be watched with interest throughout the country. If they are successful criminal rings will be driven to other large American cities, and there will be little abatement in crime for the nation as a whole. Other cities may profit by the current examples of police reorganization, and it is to be hoped that they also will join in a concerted drive against major crimes.

It Isn't Proof of Superiority to Sneer at a Man Who Doesn't Care for Poetry While Bailing the Boat.

R. FRANK CRANE is dead. The supply of editorials written by him or his understudy during his last days will soon be exhausted, and millions of people will think the world poorer.

Among those who call themselves the intelligentsia it was the fashion to make fun of Crane. Because he never said anything bitter or morbid -never ridiculed the unfortunate or sneered to demonstrate his superiority—they thought him a platitudinous old bore who prospered by entertaining the stupid.

But Crane's audience was not limited to the unlearned. At his best he wrote simply and wisely of the fundamental things that concern hgh tion of a structure fronting upon any and low alike, and people of all classes found his wisdom and gentle Albany Knickerbocker Press: An old- philosophy like a helping hand in a world of strife.

The "young intellectual" school seems to write with no other motive than to reveal its smartness. The more fault it can find in ordinary people, the more brilliant it seems by comparison. Whatever it has to say can be boiled down to the one sentence: "How stupid you are; how smart I am.'

Young writers copy the style and wonder why fame is so slow in vent reasonably avoidable impairment oming. It is because the world is annoyed by swell-head and bored of the public value belonging to such y scoldings.

Crane wrote with a purpose. He wished to help. And you can't help ceiving the rec people by telling them they are yokels, imbeciles, morons and slaves of Commission of Fine Arts, the Commishedge-parsons.

It wasn't stupidity that kept Crane from writing the smart-Aleck kind of stuff that ultra-moderns call literature. Anybody who can write at pliance with the intent of the law all can do that kind of thing if he wishes. But there is no other reward seem highly desirable to have regulathan the cheers of other smart-Alecks-whose number, praises be! is tions of this sort. If, for example,

Strange Polities.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: The nore one studies the results of the alloting last month the more one is puzzled. We see Massachusetts, Purianic Massachusetts, the State where once the amount a man or woman should expend on clothing was determined by the legislature; where the number of miles a man might lawfully travel on a Sunday, where the the length of the vest was a matter for legislative action, going over and voting with the wets. Regulation of Buildings.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: new bill has been prepared having to do with regulation of the appearance of buildings in the neighborhood of Government buildings or reservations The bill limits the regulation of plans for private buildings to the areas fronting on the Capitol, the grounds of the White House, the portion of Pennsylvania avenue between the Capito and the White House, Rock Creek Park, Zoological Park, Rock Creek-Potomac Parkway and Potomac Park.

The bill provides that when applica tion is made for a permit for the erecof the above areas, the plans, in so far as they relate to height and appearterials shall be submitted to the Fine quired to report promptly to the Com changes it deemed necessary "to prepublic buildings or parks." Upon reaction as would effect reasonable com private builders had exhibited a ten opher may be great stuff, but it dency to flout public taste and decency with poorly executed designs, regulation Builders, however, in the past ers always were willing to take into consideration the "suitability" of a design

there would be no reason to regulat them by law. On the other hand, there has been evidenced increasingly of late a tendency upon the part of authorities to hamper the activity of builders. A builder recently requested permission to erect a structure in Pennsylvania avenue to a height greater than the building back in "pyramid" style, above the 90-foot level. He was refused per mission. If this is the course to be opment of the north side of the Avean unbroken cornice line 90 eet above street level, whereas to be beautiful the roof line should be uneven and broken would develop from "pyramid architecture.

The measure providing for regulation of the exterior of structures in certain areas demands thorough consideration. Is anything to be gained through regulation that would not be att by calling upon private builders to operate with the authorities and bending upon public sentiment force into the discard plans for upuildings? Will such regulation ha per unnecessarily the activity of build-ing operators, upon which depends the continued development of a greater and more beautiful Washington? C. J. P.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Postal savings deposits in Washington aggregated $361,247 at the close of the last fiscal year, a falling off of $7,322 under figures for 1927, according to the report of operations of the Postal Savings System, transmitted to Congress by Postmaster General Harry

The decrease here was in contrast to the report for the country as a whole, the report for the country as a whole, which showed $152,143,349 in outstanding principal to the credit of postalsavings depositors, an increase of $4,-784,095, over the amount for the corresponding date last year.

The report disclosed that altogether there are 1.171 Washingtonians who maintain postal-savings accounts. The $361,247 balance to the credit of depositors here compares with $368,569 on June 30, 1927, when deposits of $282,747 were more than offset by $290,069 in withdrawals.

The amount of postal-savings interest in banks here was estimated at $338,510,71 by the Postraster General and interest paid Washington depositors during the last "iscal year was placed at $6,230,61. The local office reported $12,340 in deposits surrendered for bonds.

Funds Held in 3.851 Banks.

Postal Savings funds at the end of the fiscal year were held by 3,851 banks, of which 2,732 were national banks; 464 State banks, members of the Federal Reserve System; 653 State banks, nonmembers, and 2 organized private banks under State supervision. Under the authority of the Postal Savings act the board of trustees invested $299,120 during the year in Postal Savings bonds, purchasing them from the holders at par and accrued interest, which made the total holdings of such bonds $10,524,260. Liberty Loan bonds, having a par value of $26,676,750 and representing an investment of $23,220,680.36, incident to the World War, were held by the Treasurer of the United States for the account of the board of trustees.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Dec. 24.-That which is Wall street and all tributary to tt did not bother to hang up its stocking tonight. For all that element is gone sophisticate. The pretty German fable is not for it. There is no surfable is not for it. There is no surprise factor in the 1928 Christmas present of those—and they are legion—who are securities-minded. Their gifts have been visibly in the making for the better part of a twelve months.

And the gifts are rich indeed.

But while investors and speculators did not keep an ear keened for the sound of sleigh bells or the hoofbeats of reindeer as they sought repose tonight, most did not fall to offer up something in the nature of an eleventh hour prayer to their Kris Kringle.

The supplications were for continuation of the highest business activity and prosperity on record, for a same curb on inflation in the security markets, for escape from any impairment of the credit structure that would destroy the careful upbuilding of business conservation, for further prolongation of the impregnability of the position of the leading industries and sustained volume and value of crop production.

And, as many view it, there is good prospect for generous answer to all these prayers. Joyeuse Noel in fullest sense is the lot of the financial community. As if to register a final apre-boliday expression of confidence, at the same time further spreading the spirit of Christmas cheer, stocks were advanced substantially virtually all along the line, with special demonstrations in the issues of merchandising organizations which are sharing unprecedented holiday season business. The principal showing in the mercantile shares was in the forenoon, later the motors and rubbers came in for an inning of price-boosting and in the late session the advance turned to the late session the forence specialties.

The turnover was surprisingly large for a Christmas eve, and, considering the extent of the celebrations which were general throughout mammor's haif-acre. There was not the volume of normal Monday 1 offit taking or pre-holiday liquidation that had been expected and the demand through wire houses was appreciably greater tha And, as many view it, there is good

Twenty New Highs Scored.

Twenty New Highs Scored.

Twenty new highs for the year or longer and but four new lows were established during the session. Some two score issues raised their levels 2 to 5 points or so, conspicuous among them being St. Louis Southwestern, National Supply, Endicott-Johnson, National Biscuit. Stewart-Warner, R. H. Macy, Columbia Carbon, Cluett-Peabody, National Distillers common and preferred, American Smelting, Beechnut Packing, Commercial Credit, International Match preferred, Gold Dust, Simpmons, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Westinghouse Manufacturing, Collins and Alkman, Standard Gas Electric and Vanadium.

Gas Electric and Vanadium.

Here and there among the recently more volatile descriptions occurred siz-able recessions, with a 13½-point drop in International Nickel on very light dealings an outstanding movement on that side.

Losses in Wright Aero. Greene Cananea, McCrory Stores B, Borden, Bayuk, Elsenlohr, Certainteed, Anaconda, Chile
Copper, American Sumatra Tobacco,
American Car Foundry and a few American Car Foundry and a few more ranged between a point and 4 1-3 and Baidwin Locomotive sold off 15 points in a single small transaction.

Anaconda Increases Dividend.

The prediction of a dividend increase hrough the directors was borne out through the directors' declaration of $1.50 a share quarterly, placing it on a $6 annual basis, as against $4 formerly But the extra disbursement anticipated in some quarters was not forthcoming and the stock dropped more than 4 points on the announcement, following early strength, and finished 1% on the down side. There came a rousing bullish demonstration on the floor of the exchange as the closing going sounded, traders generally joining in the spirit of celebration of another bull Christmas at hand.

The money market isiled to appear as a disturbing factor, although in early dealings there was some fear that it would.

dealings there was some fear that it would.

The renewal rate was fixed at 9 per cent, but loan calling by banks was of monthal proportions and new funds poured into the market, bringing call funds as low as 8½ per cent in the outside market in the afternoon.

The foreign exchange market presented an unusual situation in heavy trading in-sterling on the day before Christmas. Sterling was bid for in Nocks of £200,000 and made a further acvance of %, to $485% for cables French exchange held firm at 3.91½ for ables. Swiss advanced ½ point and Swedish crowns and posetas gained 1½ points, but Danish eased ½ point. Silver exchanges were strong following the advance in the metal, Hongkong up ½, to 50.12, and Shanghai ¾, to ¾ cent Surguayan pesos improved 12 points and other South Americans were steady. Canadian dollars remained at ¼-cent discount.

GENERAL BOND LIST SEEMS NEGLECTED

Some Holiday Selling Sets In; Coppers Among More Active Issues.

FOREIGNS RATHER HEAVY

New York, Dec. 24 (A.P.) .- The bond market failed to share in the heavy trading and buoyant prices of the stock market today and appeared generally to be neglected. Total sales were slight ly above $6,500,000.

Inclination to dispose of holdings until after the holiday caused selling, which was augmented by the calling of $10,000,000 in bank loans and the maintenance of call and time money at hitch leads.

maintenance of call and time money at high levels.

Public Service of New Jersey 4½ s were the center of trading, advancing more than 3 points on buying which reflected the strength of utility stocks, but did not extend to other utility issues. Brooklyu Union Gas 5½ gained 2 points on a small tunover, but little business was done elsewhere in the group.

panied 2 points on a small tunover, but little business was done elsewhere in the group.

Coppers were among the more active tessues of the industrial list, but lost thehe early gains. Anaconda 7s closing down 5 points. Loew's 6s. U. S. Rubber 7½s. U. S. Steel 5s, Barnsdall 6s. Pure 01 5½s and others also registered small losses.

International Cement 5s established a new top at 110¾, but yielded to profit taking. Bethlehem Steel 6s. Kayser & Co. 5½s, Schulco 6½s B. Standard Oil of New Jerse, 5s and Goodyear Thre 5s were among the few Issues to close with small net gains.

Ralls were irregular. New York Railways 5s slumped more than 12 points. Fractional gains were recorded y Missouri Pacific 5s, Southern Pacific 4s. Seaboard Air Line 5s and Norfolk & Western 4s.

The foreign list was inclined to Western 4s.

The foreign list was inclined to heaviness and Bolivian Government issues again lost ground. U. S. Government obligations old off, with the decline widest in Treasury 4s.

Pinchurst, N. C., Dec. 24 (A.P.).
J. D. Chapman, and Richard Chapman, of Greenwich, Coun., won the seventh annual father and son golf tournament of Pinchurst Country Club today, succeeding last year's title winners, Sheppard and Eugene Homans, Englewood, N. J., who did not enter the event this year.

The Chapmans stacked out a fine round of 75 over No. 2 championship course, having an outward line of 37 strokes and coming back in 38.

In the net competition, first prize went to A. S. Higgins and C. K. Higgins, of Yonkers, N. Y., with a card of 92-24-68. They were a stroke back of the Chapman pair, which had a tally of 75-8-67, but could take only one trophy, that for their gross score.

For second place in the nets there was a tie between C. M. and Jack Rudel, of Montreal, with 83-17-70, and Tom and R. G. Morrison, Pittsburgh, were the only other team besides the champions to break 80. The field of 17 teams provided some extremely interesting golf.

Almost the Naked Truth

EW YORK. Dec. 24.—Another good-will expedition to a sister republic to the South comes to a grand climax tomorrow when Paulino Uzcudun, the belting Basque, and Jack Renault, who earned the sobriquet of police of the Canadian mounted police by getting his picture taken in uniform on a horse, climb into a ring to perform for the edification of the good citizens of Colombia and a sizable wad of Colombian currency.

when he came to the majors, it also was discovered that he was too good a man to be kept on the bench and, because of his terrific hitting, he first was tried as an outfielder and then shifted to first-base, which proved to be his natural position, aside from flinging. During his four seasons as a ran-rah boy, he compiled a batting average of 543 and he continued as a leading pill-pounder when he came up to the big time circuit.

Judging from his 340 stick average with the Braves last season, he is still too good a man to be used every four or five days, as would be the case if his request that he be listed as a pitcher is granted. Then again, it must be remembered that George will be 35 years old before next season gets under way. Taking his age into consideration, along with his .988 average as a fielder, the chances are that Boston officials will do a whole lot of thinking before they grant his request.

The boys had plenty of time to rehearse on the way down, but their present attitude toward each other is unknown. Intimate association on shipboard may have made Messrs. Paulino and Renault bosom frends by this time. On the other hand, close contact of this sort over a stretch of monotonous days has been known to breed undying enmittes and the Colombians may see a real fight after all. All hands will go into the ring comforted by the thought that at any rate their compensation is assured, their guarantees having been posted here before they sailed.

National of American Leagues, made his last meteoric leap today.

The outstanding "hot corner" artist of the five years between 1922 and 1927 was released by the New York Yankess to the Boston Braves, of the National League, at the walver price, thus ending the two months' discussion as to "What will Dugan do?" which has been raging since the close of the big league season and the announcement by Miller Huggins that he intended making a shift at third base.

There was surprise all along the base paths on Forty-second street, for it had been generally understood that Joe was to get his unconditional release from the Yankees, he being a "ten-year man"—1! e., one who has served ten years in major league baseball and who can not be relegated to the minors. The Yankees made a semiofficial announcement to this effect a week ago.

Dugan had been anxious to get his release without strings, for he wished to make a deal with the Chicago Cubs, who were reported willing to take the veteran for his well-known baseball knowledge and experience. It was also reported that the Brooklyn Robins might have considered making him an offer.

It was just before the war year, in 1917, that Dugan first flashed from Holy Cross, one of the fastest infielders ever to go from college ranks to the big leagues without minor league training. He was with the Athletics in 1917 and until 1921 as second baseman, shortstop and third baseman.

Never a slugger, Dugan was a fine hitter in emergencies. The pitchers feared him, as he was tricky and knew how to employ the unexpected in the pinches.

Making the announcement of Du-gan's release today. Ed Barrow, the Yankees' manager, stated that he had no idea of the plans of Miller Hug-gins as to the Yankee third baseman for 1929. Sharkey Ranked Best Heavyweight With Dempsey Next.

Jackie Fields Is Rated Better Than Champ. Joe Dundee.

EW YORK, Dec. 24 (A.P.).—The worthlest champions of them all in the boxing world are Tommy Loughran and Sammy Mandell, in the light of the final ranking of 1 ders of the various weight divisions for 1928 which is published today by the New York Sun.

York Sun.

Loughran not only heads his own light heavyweight kingdom by a good margin in the Sun's consensus, compiled each year from the votes of 60 newspaper boxing writers in various cities, but his name also tops the leaders in the other classes in the points which reflect the favor of the critics.

The boxing Adonis from Phila-delphia tallied a total of 596 points out of a possible 600, 10 points being awarded for each first-place rating. Next in line is Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, with 591, while Mickey Walker, middleweight king; is third with 586.

Next in order came Tod Morgan, Junior lightweight; Izzy Schwartz, fly-weight; Jimmy McLarnin, junior wel-terweight; Jackle Fields, welterweight; Jack Sharkey, heavyweight; Fidel La Barba, bantamweight, and Benny Bass, featherweight.

Barba, bantamweight, and Benny Bass featherweight.

In the list of ten, three champions were overthrown by the consensus. Andre Routis, featherweight title holder, running second to Bass; Mushy Callahan being superseded by McLarnin among the Junior welterweights, and the inactive Joe Dundee being crowded off the top of the welterweight division by Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles.

Sharkey rolled up the highest point total among the heavy-weights, although Jack Dempsey had the most votes for first and second places.

A showing comparable to that of Loughran in impressiveness was made 1, Mandell, cat-like champion of the 135-pounders, as he had a longer lead over the No. 2 man in hi: division that any other leaders enjoyed, Joe Glick being second, but far behind. Loughram had the next biggest margin with Lee Lomski rated as second best in the light-heavy class.

sided, Georgia Tech's Football Team. Eastern representative in the New Year's Day gridiron classic, turned today to the more serious business of preparing for the battle with California's Golden Bears.

It was a warm day in which the Southerners turned out for their initial workout. After they had been given their first view of Pasadena by sunlight, Coach Bill Alexander jumped the Yellowjackets into their pigskin apparel for a practice session in the Rose Bowl to remove the kinks and cricks of the long train ride from the South.

The drill for the Dixle aggregation was nothing more than an exercise. It was open house for newspaper men and photographers, who were permit-ted to get their bounty of stories and Alexander pronounced his men in fine physical shape and discounted reports that 'flu' and other aliments were prevalent in the squad. Georgia Tech played its last game on December 8 and light training since has served to keep the men in shape.

The Tech mentor plans to continue light work over tomorrow, jumping to scrimmage probably Wednesday. After today the Southerners will work out at Patterson Field, Eagle Rock, Calif. California's two workouts a day still were in effect today. Coach Nibs Price and his Bears descended upon Tournament Park this morning and again in the afternoon. The work of polishing up the Westerners continued through both sessions. Price Indicated that his charges are approaching fine through both sessions. Frice indicated that his charges are approaching fine form under the rigorous training grind they have been undergoing for several days. Odds still favored California's Bears today to uphold Western supremacy in the East-West clash.

of much interest to Mountaineer basket ball fans were released by the West Virginia University athletic management today, revealing the fact that Pittsburgh. Washington and Jefferson and Carnegie Tech will again be on the Mountaineer schedule each in a pair of games.

Carnegie Tech will be met on January 5, in the new Field house on the Mountaineer campus as the first of the "Big Four" opponents. The West Virginians will play the Tartans in a return game in Pittsburgh on March 2. Pitt, the "Big Four" champlons of last season, and the only team of the league to defeat the Mountaineers twice, will be encountered in the Pitt stadium court on January 18, and the Panther passers will play in a return game on the Field house floor on March 2. The Washington and Jefferson courtmen will not be Mountaineer opponents until February 27, when the Stadsvoldmen play the Presidents at Washington. Pa. In one of the final games of the season, the Wash-Jeff tossers will play the return contest here on March 9.

Northern A. C. basketers have thre games to keep them busy during the week. Tomorrow the McLean Five will be met at McLean, Va., while on Thurs day the Wintons will be engaged. The Peck Seniors are scheduled for Saturday.

Alabama Alumni to Play To Heal 21-Year Breach

London

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 24 (A.P.) Athletic relations between Alabama's two largest colleges, broken 21 years tween the student bodies, will be partially resumed New Year's Day when alumni football teams of Alabama University and Alabama Polytechnic Institute meet here.

The game will be for charity, and its sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Montgomery, have expressed the hope it may lead to resumption of athletic relations be tween undergraduate teams. Gov Graves, himself a former Alabama football player, will attend, as will officials of the two institutions.

The alumni teams will include many stars of former years from each institution. The last football game between the regular teams of the two schools ended in a 6-to-6

Many Gallant Efforts Fall Short of Fame During 1928

Hancock's Bid for National Open Title, Ball's Race Against Barbuti, Columbia's Test With California Futile But Great.

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

You don't hear much about Ball now, but if he had started his final sprint a little earlier it would be quite another story to recall.

Columbia's great varsity crew, champions of 1927, joined the runners-up in the background this year while the victor's spoils went to California. Yet there was only a three-quarter learnth markly between the two shells length margin between the two shells after a heart-breaking, as well as rec-ord-breaking pull at Poughkeepsie. It took the fastest four miles old man river has ever seen to keep these Col-umbians from repeating.

the big boy would get one in the middle that would fold him up. As things went along we found out we were right about the farmer not knowing his stuff, but, oh, what a horse for punishment he turned out to be. James must have hit him 101 times in the body during the first two rounds, but it didn't seem to faze him. "'What am I going to do, Joe?' James asked me before the beginning of the third round, and I said to throw everything into him, to throw his body with his punches. I told James that all the farmer had to stop James' punches was his jaw, and to let him have that hard left hook.

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

New York, Dec. 24 (A.P.).—Before the old year runs its course something should be said on behalf of a few of the gallant efforts that fell a trifle short of the main mark. It's the ancient custom to hall the winner. Often the runner-up was just a shade or two short of the top but he usually is consigned to oblivion nevertheless.

Golf has an exception in Bobby Jones, a headliner as winner or runner-up, but can you remember Roland Hancock? He came within a stroke of tying Jones and Johnny Farrell for the open championship last June at Olympia Fields. In fact the young North Carolina professional had the title in his grasp with only two holes to go, only to waver and fall short as the big crowd and the strain affected him at the same time. He w within a shot of furnishing the year's golfing sensation, but they forgot him quickly after that.

Eight inches or less separated the strand for the Go. A. tournament later and said of the P. G. A. tournament later also after the Raitmore. He was one of Al Espinosa of the P. G. A. tournament later ancient customers that said time but dissipated his mettle by staging a come-back that almost overhauled his rival in that event but displayed his mettle by staging a come-back that almost overhauled his rival in the afternoon round.

Smith was 7 down after the first 18 holes but cut three holes from this margin with a brilliant 33 for the outgoing nine of the afternoon only to have Espinosa go wild and win by 6 and 5.

Horton Smith, Junior Coen, Frank Wykoff, Red Cagle and Paavo Nurmi are a few of the stars of sport who will be closely watched as they carry the 1928 campaign over into 1929.

If Missourl has a golf star to be shown in Smith, it also has a bright tennis ranks since Vincent Richards. Much of future Davis cup hopes may be built around the slim Kansas City youth.

with Lafayette third. The latter got of last and closed with a rush.

GRIFFITH FIVE BUSY.

The Clark Griffith Insects, in the 100-pound class, are forced to change their game with the Peerless from Thursday to Friday night at the MacFarland High School gymnasium. Special Tractice Today
In preparation for Sunday's game in the Capital City League with the Palace A. C. for the 135-pound champion-ship, the Northern Preps will hold a special drill this afternoon on a gridiron yet to be named. Coach Fenwich requests all players meet him at the "ark to the change in day and time for the game with the St. John's Eagles for last Monday can be arranged for to-morrow or Friday by phoning Manager Mendelson at Columbia 1458.

last June but he reached the semi-finals of the P. G. A. tournament later at Baltimore. He was one of Al Espi-nosa's victims in that event but dis-played his mettle by staging a come-back that almost overhauled his rival

"Gee, Joe; what am I going to do now?' James said at the end of the round. I told him I didn't know, but I guessed we had brought along the wrong things to knock him out with. A piece of pipe would have been necessary, so I advised James to just keep on plugging and maybe he would win the decision anyway.

"But what do you thing? Those hicks gave the farmer a draw, and all James got out of the fight was a few dollars and a pair of sore hands." SCHORR AND HIRSCH

Wykoff was the sprint sensation at home last summer. Youth and inexperience kept him from Olympic heights, but experienced coaches expect him to develop into a world's champion.

Cagle, after three great years at West Point, will be back for a last fling on the gridiron, as captail, of the 1929 Army array and with an all-American reputation to uphold. beat Dr. Freeland a head in the Pilli-teo Futurity, Odom took a running jump right over the head of Schorr. Incidentally he clinched it by winning nine other races over the Maryland tracks—four with Sandy, four with Sun Shadow and one with Chance Nurmi again is the main figure of an American indoor track season after a three-year interval. The phantom Finn returns with only one of his old rivals, Willie Ritola, apparently ready to renew the footracing argument.

Of the runners who looked at Paavo's flying heels in his first American in-door race in 1925, Lloyd Hahn has withdrawn from competition for the winter, Joie Ray has turned pro, while umbians from repeating.

Smith seems headed for the main championship flight. He was 13 strokes back of Farrell and Jones at the wind-up of the national open at Chicago

S AN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24 (A.P.).—
Football stars of the past and present donned uniforms today to pit experience if not team work against the great Eastern squad which 's training at Stanford University for the East-West charity game at San Francisco December 29
The pick-up cleven which scrimmaged against Coach Andy Kerr's easterns included Ernie Nevers, former All-American fullback; Ed Walker, end; Hal McCreery, center: Fred Swan, guard; Mike Murphy, quarter back, and many others who brought fame to Stanford in earlier days.

All of the plays with which Coach Kerr hopes to snatch victory came in for a workout and the Eastern team functioned smoothly throughout. While no intimation has been given as to starting backfields the one receiving most attention is composed of Harpster, Carnegie Tech, quarter back; Weston, Boston College, and Guest, Lafayette, halfbacks; Holmer, Northwestern, fullback.

The Western team, coached by

The Western team, coached by Orin E. Hollingbery, of Washington State College, whizzed through a long practice session here today despite rainy weather. Lacking a thoroughly experienced signal caller, Hollingbery has decided to use Dan Allen, former Yale player now with the Olympic Club, and "Biff" Hoffman, Stanford fullback.

Two backfield combinations are being experimented with. One includes Sims, Stanford quarter back: Cowan, Sulross, College of Texas and Horan, Washington State, half backs and Hoffman, full back another feature is Walker, Texas Tech, quarter back; Speicher, West Coast Army and Macus, California, half backs, and Allen, full back

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 24.—
The 40 candidates for Virginia's Varsity Boxing Team, who suspended practice when examinations started early in December, will report to Coach John S. LaRowe on Wednesday, January 2. No time is to be lost, for ten days later the leather pushers from Duke University come to Memorial Gymnasium for the first dual match of the 1929 season.

The Cavaliers will start the season without a veteran in the line-up. The only two letter men working out on the squad aif fail—Hugh Flannagan and Capt. Hamilton Bryan—are now out for the season.

Flannagan, son of Dr. Roy K. Flan-boy, is suffering from high blood pressure. Upon finding a week ago that he would be unable to compete he at once tendered his resignation. Members of the squad refused to elect a successor, and he was finally persuaded by the coach and his teammates to continue as leader of the squad.

Bryan was one of the most aggresaive members of the 1928 team and holds a high place in the affection of undergraduates of the institution.

Bryan was chosen captain at the start of the present college term to succeed Hank Weed, of Savannah, Ga. who failed to return to school, after accepting a position in New York City. Weed, it will be recalled, took the weed, it will be recalled, took the measure of Ed. Butler, North Carolina ace, in the Southern Conference tournament held last March in Memorial Gymnasium, at the university—the only defeat sustained by the Tarheel capitain in his four years in the ring. Butler is now head coach of the North Carolina boxing tear, having been appointed to aucceed Crayton Rowe, who built up strong teams at Chapel Hill for two years.

White Plays Organ Today Over Radio

Will Give Christmas Day Recital; Lillian Taiz Will Sing in New Program; Bridge Game By Experts at 4:30 p. m.

A Christmas Day organ recital, with the program arranged to take full advantage of the varied possibilities of the modern pipe organ, will be given by the Eversady Hour a' 9 o'clock tonight from WRC.

Lew White will play the organ. Mr. White is known wherever lovers of the organ in America gather for his work as chief organist of the Roxy Theater in New York City and through his playing as guest organist in the principal cities of the country. Mr. White has selected familiar and tuneful numbers for the program, including a musical novelty. "Musical Snuff Box."

Two soloists will also be heard, Janet Dardier and Justin Buchard, in groups of songs.

A new program will go on the air at $20 c'clock tonight, and severy Theater.

A new program will go on the air at $8.30 o'clock tonight, and every Tuesday hereafter, when the Prophylactic Brush Co. presents a half hour of popular vocal and instrumental music. The guest artist for tonight will be Lillian Tais the musical comedy and radio soprano. Miss Taiz will sing "Chloe" and "Love Me or Leave Me," from "Whoopie."

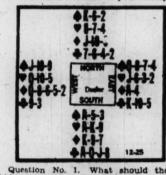

A special arrangement of Tschaikowsky's plane concerto in B flat minor will be played by the Mediterraneans as the opening selection of their Christmas program at 8 o'clock tonight. Neel Coward, the extremely versatile English composer, offers the best selections from his bright revue, "This Year of Grace." The orchestra will play "Dance, Little Ladly:" "Caballeros" will be sung by the Serenaders; a duet, "A Room With i View." by Lillian Taiz and Dari getting and alone Miss Taiz will at 15. Diamond (the Five), and East should play the Ace.

4. When West leads the Five of Diamonds. Declarer knows that East has just one diamond higher than the five. (Five from eleven leaves six; Dummy and Closed Hand have five higher than the Five; East must have the sixth.) Declarer must win four Club tricks to make game; to win them, he probably will have to obtain two entries in the Dummy; the King of Spades is one and, by playing Dummy's Ten on the first trick he obtains another if East's high Diamond is the Eight of Six.

Dummy accordingly plays Ten on the first trick; but when East's high Diamond turns out to be the Ace, Declarer plays Closed Hand's King under the Ace, making North's Jack a sure winner and the needed second Diamond entry.

MERRY CHRISTMASI To each and every Corner reader, I send my warin good wishes for a happy day. I like to meet people especially readers of our part of the paper—and I wish I could shake hands with each and every one of you, and show you how glad I am to be your friend.

Self-et than to receive—at least for grown folks.

When I was a boy, I used to try to remember all "the folks" with presents of one kind or another. Once or twice when I had very little money to spend, I went to a lo-cent store and bought "grab bags." From their contents, I chose things to give to my parents.

In many a home there will be holly or mistletoe this Christmas, besides a tree.

Since I haven't so many hands as that giant the Greeks used to tell about (they said he had a hundred!) cury. I can not get very far around my family, in person; but I can give my family, in person; but I can give you greeting here.

There was a time when I used to hang up my stocking—and the candy and nuts seemed to taste better because of the place I found them Christmas morning. I haven't any stocking to hang up any more—and a sock doesn't seem to fill the bill.

Even without the stocking, I enjoy Christmas a great deal. I found out long ago that it is more pleasant to or mistietoe this consession tree.

Mistletoe is a shrub which grows on trees—especially arising from the bark of evergreen, poplar, pear and apple trees. It is a "parasite"—for it lives on the sap produced by the tree from which it grows.

There has long been a custom of "kissing beneath the mistletoe." In Engiand some folks made a practice of picking off a berry each time they kissed.

Question No. 4. Which two cards hould be played by the Declarer on rick ?

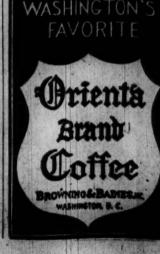

THE ANSWERS.

They never guess, so bright they seem. How fragile are the lights which gleam And all the painted trinkers hung. The branches of the tree among!

The little girl and little boy Behold the outward signs of joy. And never guess the tender thought By which these wonders all we

So we the older children take
The fragile Joys the long years make
And all life's countiess pleasures fair,
And miss Thy love which placed them there.

God, teach us all to understand The mercles of Thy bounteous hand. Open our eyes that we may find Thy tender love for all mankind. (Copyright, 1928, Edgar A. Guest.)

Indians in Virginia Pay

Annual Tribute to Byrd Richmond, Va., Dec. 24 (A.P.).—The Governor of Virginia today received the annual tribute of the Pamunkey Tribe. Chief Cook and eight other Indians, clad in forest costume, brought a young deer, killed on Old Dominion soil, to Gov. Byrd in keeping with a custom dating from the seventeenth century.

Chief Cook said considerable difficulty was experienced in obtaining this year's offering of wild game. The Pamunkey reservation, near White House, Va., was hunted carefully by the most skilled woodsmen of the tribe but with no result. The tribute could not be delivered on Thanksgiving, the usual time for the gift, and the warriors ranged far afield to procure the deer before Christmas, Chief Cook said.

Funny Men Are Big Hit.

A couple of funny men, Lloyd and Brice, had the children convulsed with laughter as they burlesquer a pair of tumblers. Their antics put every one in good humor. Jocko, the Juggling Crow, also gave the boys and girls plenty of chances to exercise their laughing cords. This bird juggles balls, plates and clubs while showing its versatility by kissing and performing on a mouth organ.

Last, but far from least, the Seven Arabs closed the bill with an exhibition of scrobatic and tumbling work which left absolutely nothing to be desired. They were a "hit" with grown ups and children alike.

The entire Fox staff donated its services to make the show a complete success. C. F. Winchester, house manager; Hardie Meskin, publicly director, and David Idzal, managing director, worked hard to line up the program, while the expenters, property department, sleotricians, ushers and pages were all on hand to assure a good time for the youngsters.

Music Opens Performance.

Morton Floodas, organist, opened the performance by playing Christmas music on the Wurlitzer. On each side of the stage giant Christmas trees, bespangled with tinsel and ornaments, glittered in the light, lending a holiday atmosphere to the theater.

Suddenly the curtains opened and there stood Santa. He was greeted with wild applause from his little frieads. Santa told of his joy at being with the children of Washington and of the thrills he had when The Washington Post expedition came to the North Pele to bring him back.

Then came the pictures of Santa's home, his reladeer, the workshop in which the toys were made and of Eskimos and the life they live in the North. Each scene brought "ohis" and "aha" from The Post's guests and apparently every minute of the picture was enjoyed.

The right of public utilities companies to demand deposits prior to the installation or starting of service is attacked in a brief filed with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday by E. C. Riegal as director of the Washington Consumers Guild.

Riegel declares that the imposition of the deposit requirement on prospective patrons is an invasion of the common-law rights of citizens. He cites four specific contentions upon which the right of the utilities to demand the deposit should be set aside.

The Public Utilities Commission is now holding public hearings on the demands of the companies that they should be allowed to collect the deposits. Oral tetstimony has been heard, and Mr. Riegel's brief is simply a reiteration of the arguments already presented to the commission.
